

1-day
Masterclass

Llandudno Junction,
Conwy

22/06/17

For practitioners, managers and commissioners working in social care

The use of evidence is important for good decision-making - this much is news to no one. Evidence helps us to understand problems and needs, spot opportunities, assess what works, understand how and why it works and make judgements about the better intervention or course of action. But using evidence is far from easy. It is often hard to access and commission, slow to produce and findings are of variable quality. The question of how to interpret findings and make decisions and changes to policy or practice based on evidence is far from straight-forward.

The Evidence Masterclass is an opportunity for social care professionals from the public and third sectors to develop confidence in their use of research evidence.

Who is it for

Practitioners, managers or commissioners with a need to use health or social care evidence

Cost

All spaces are fully funded by The National Centre for Population Health and Wellbeing Research

Venue

Conwy Business Centre,
Llandudno Junction, Conwy
LL31 9XX
9.30am-4pm.
Lunch included

Book

Email Helen.green5@wales.nhs.uk by May 19th, including any access or dietary requirements you may have. You will be notified about whether you have secured a place by May 26th

Additional info:

Attendees will be expected to complete a 500 word reflection of their learning and development by July 6th.

<http://www.alliance4usefulevidence.org/evidence-exchange/evidence-masterclass/>

www.ncphwr.org